Summary of Content

Subject and Aims	This paper summarises the proposed main emphases for non-routine work in the Connexional Team in 2009-10 for consideration by the Council.
Main Points	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The provisional workplans in the agreed 2009-10 budget and the decisions of the 2009 Conference have shaped this work. • There is an issue with the volume of instructions handed down from Conference to the Team, which are not clearly linked with decisions about resources. • Much of the work gathers around the chosen emphasis on Discipleship. • There are also major tasks proposed to better equip those in the Connexion who themselves equip others. • The Team supports in vital ways the Connexional infrastructure and twelve areas for special attention are identified.
Background Context and Relevant Documents (with function)	The budget report to 2009 Conference: Agenda item 33. The discussion on Discipleship at the September 2009 Council meeting.

CONNEXIONAL TEAM WORKPLAN 2009-10

Context

1 The Council received the draft budget for 2009-10 in April, which was constructed on the basis of the best judgements at the time about what work the Team should do in 2009-10. Some descriptions of key work projects in each of the five staff clusters were included. The Council and the Conference accepted the Team's suggestion that it would not present to the Conference a comprehensive line by line workplan for the whole Team, but that the September Council would address this in the light of Conference decisions.

2 Since the budget was prepared, there have been two significant developments. First, the theme of Discipleship as a central motif for the General Secretary's work and the interaction of the Team with the wider Connexion has received support from a range of informal and governance bodies, including the Strategy and Resources Committee (SRC). This can now more confidently be used as a lens through which to assess competing demands for work. And secondly the Conference has met.

Contribution of the Conference

3 The Conference accepted the budget and therefore established the volume of resources, in money and staff, available to the Team for 2009-10.

4 At Wolverhampton the Conference also gave instruction for 75 distinct pieces of work, most of which would rely to a greater or lesser degree on input from the Team. These are listed in Appendix 1. Some of these were promoted by the Council and carry forward work already planned, but many fitted less obviously. Some newcomers to the Conference expressed surprise at the ease with which these additional tasks can be agreed. Rarely was any explicit link to the Conference's chosen Priorities made. The resource implications of proposals were often unclear.

5 In addition there are currently 79 pieces of work that appear to be outstanding from earlier Conferences (see Appendix 2). In practice some of these have been completed but not formally reported as such; others have been subsumed in later work, eg the 2007 Conference passed a series of resolutions about climate change which can be deemed superseded by the major report Hope in God's Future received this year. There remain a significant number which have never come near the top of the list of priority work and now have to be seen in the context of the implementation of the Conference decision to reduce markedly the size of the core staff Team.

6 Whatever views there may now be about these various Conference instructions, it remains the case that they all have the authority of having been passed by the Conference and the Team has no wish to be a poor servant of the Conference. Therefore the Team intends to offer suggestions to the SRC, for possible recommendation to a future Council meeting, of how this overhang of potential work can most responsibly be addressed.

Practical Prioritisation for 2009-10

7 In the light of the acceptance of the budget and the other decisions of the Conference, the Team workload in 2009-10 has been further reviewed. The advice of the SRC was to be rigorous rather than attempt to offer more than could reasonably be delivered by the existing staff resources. The management is certainly very conscious that in some areas of the Team in 2008-9 workloads were chronically excessive and assumes the Council does not wish to be viewed as an uncaring employer.

8 As a result of weighing these factors, the following key themes are suggested as the main priorities for work in 2009-10. No attempt is made to produce a comprehensive list of small items or of the regular work done in every Cluster which is paid for out of the Connexional core costs part of the budget. Nor is there any attempt to predict those unexpected important opportunities, arising from Districts or elsewhere, for which the Team will wish to make room. Listed are the main aspects of what in the budget was referred to as Priority Discretionary work.

I Discipleship

9 Major pieces in support of the central theme of Discipleship will include:

- i. Venture FX project (formerly known as Pioneering Ministries)
- ii. Inspire Network project

- xviii. Support District engagement with regional media
- xix. Support Business Ethics network

II Equipping those who equip others

10 In fulfilling its brief to focus on what it can uniquely or best do, the Team will often put its energies more into equipping those in authorised ministries to be as effective as possible in their relationships with the members, friends and contacts of local churches than into direct contacts with the grass roots. Major initiatives in this area in 2009-10 will include:

- i. Develop the New Superintendency training programme
- ii. Devise framework for ministerial reflection and learning development
- iii. Plan induction resources for intercultural ministry
- iv. Explore forms of support for chaplains
- v. Organise June 2010 Consultation for all Partner Churches

III Infrastructure of Connexion

11 While much of the work of the Team, especially in the largest cluster – Support Services – supports the structures the Connexion chooses to operate, several areas will receive special attention in 2009-10:

- i. Review funding for ministerial training
- ii. Implement the restructuring of the Finance Office
- iii. Complete roll-out of Property Consents process
- iv. Review the Resourcing Mission Office in Manchester
- v. Develop evaluation tools for the Team's work
- vi. Consolidate the new in-house Methodist Publishing

- xii. Explore a possible Children's Assembly
