Oceans of kindness,
and freedom to roam,
words of compassion
and moments alone:
many the treasures
we hold in our hearts
one with each other
when we are apart.

Rivers of sorrow,
and bridges of hope,
bind us together
when struggling to cope:
days full of heartache
bring evenings of tears
alone in the darkness
that fills us with fear.

Rainbows of promise,
and stars in the skies,
faithful in covenant
O God, hear our cries;
sorrow and laughter
are mingled with pain,
beauty in small things
brings joy once again.

Streams of forgiveness,
and wellsprings of peace,
grace in abundance
you bring to the feast, Jesus our healer
you call us to come
giving your own life
that all may be one.

Water of new life,
and ripples of air,
Spirit eternal,
God's presence declares;
faith will transform us
as love conquers fear,
filled with compassion
our calling we hear.
