Suggested resources and service elements to aid reflection on the war in Ukraine

These elements have been prepared to aid those wishing to mark the one-year anniversary of Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine on 24 February 2022. You can pick and choose from the elements below to add to your service and help your congregation to engage prayerfully and thoughtfully with the ongoing war.

Background

On 24 February 2022, Russia launched a full-scale invasion of Ukraine. This came eight years after the illegal annexation of Crimea and the beginning of conflict in the Donbas region. It is difficult to estimate how many people have died as a result of this war, but it is likely in the hundreds of thousands. Around 8 million Ukrainians have been internally displaced, with a similar number seeking refuge abroad. The loss of homes and lives has been truly devastating.

While combat is now concentrated on particular areas in the east and south of Ukraine, Russia has increasingly targeted missiles on critical infrastructure and cities across the country. Air raids and blackouts have become a regular part of life for many Ukrainians, who are enduring a cold winter without power, fear for their loved ones on the frontlines, and grief for those they have lost.

Bishop Christian Alsted, who has episcopal oversight of the United Methodist Church in Ukraine, writes:

"Things are getting worse, and the war is taking its toll on the strength of the pastors and leaders. Nevertheless, an amazing ministry of hospitality to fellow Ukrainians and care for the community is going on, and in the churches, people continue to gather for worship, prayer meetings and even children's and youth ministry; where in person gatherings are not possible, people meet online.

There are three main prayer concerns lifted by our people in Ukraine:

Pray for the protection of the Ukrainian people who are facing a long and cold winter with frequent missile and drone attacks.

Pray for the protection of critical infrastructure such as power plants and water supplies.

Pray that God will stop the war and bring peace, justice and reconciliation to all of the Ukrainian people."

Bishop Eduard Khegay, who is bishop of the United Methodist Church in the Eurasia area (including Russia) writes:

"The conflict between Russia and Ukraine brings a lot of pain to our society and our churches in Russia. Many people have polarized opinions. Politics comes to every church and every family. How can we be Christians in the midst of this tragedy? How can we be peace-makers?

Millions of Ukrainians, mostly from Eastern Ukraine, moved to Russia and seek refuge. Hundreds of thousands of Russians left the country because they disagree with the present action of our government or are afraid to be drafted to the army. We have friends, including members of Methodist churches, who are now in Kyrgyzstan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Turkey, Europe and USA. It is very sad that people had to leave their country.

We continue to pray for peace, for this conflict to end, for hope to increase.”

To aid your theological reflection on the war, you may find this podcast from Croatian theologian Miroslav Volf helpful: for-the-life-of-the-world-yale-center-for-faith-culture.simplecast.com/episodes/miroslav-volf-war-on-ukraine-theological-and-moral-reflections

This resource is structured through the journey of ‘lament-protest-act’, which will help your congregation to mourn with those who mourn (Romans 12:15), to raise our voices against injustice (Jeremiah 9:17-21), and to actively strive for peace (Matthew 5:9). This helps us enter into the suffering of Ukraine, express our anger at evil, and move beyond despair into hopeful action.

You may wish to base your entire service on this theme, or give a short section for reflection. Feel free to pick, choose and adapt from the ideas given below. Hymn suggestions are listed at the end of the document.

Service elements

Call to worship: selected verses from Psalm 31, which has become a key Scripture for Ukrainian Christians since the invasion. You can find a video of the Psalm read in Ukrainian at biblesociety.org.uk/latest/news/ukraine-crisis-how-psalm-31-is-bringing-comfort

Leader: In you, Lord, I have taken refuge;

All: let me never be put to shame; deliver me in your righteousness.

Leader: Turn your ear to me, come quickly to my rescue;

All: be my rock of refuge, a strong fortress to save me.

Leader: Into your hands I commit my spirit;

All: deliver me, Lord, my faithful God.

Leader: Praise be to the Lord,

All: for he showed me the wonders of his love when I was in a city under siege. You heard my cry for mercy when I called to you for help.

Leader: Love the Lord, all his faithful people!

All: Be strong and take heart, all you who hope in the Lord.

Lament

In lament, we face up to the difficult emotional reality of war; refusing to become desensitised to the injustice and joining with the victims of war in their grief and sadness. We remember all who are affected by war: those who have lost homes, livelihoods and loved ones; soldiers on both sides, put in harm's way by the decisions of Vladimir Putin and those who support him; Russian protestors and dissidents; refugees settling far from home; the global poor feeling the impact of inflation and food production.

A lament is not simply an expression of our grief and pain, but a cry for help based on confidence in God's character. Lament is a key biblical theme, common in the Psalms and the prophets. You may want to use some of the following passages as inspiration:

- 2 Chronicles 20:12
- Lamentations 3
- Several Psalms (eg 6, 88, 137)
- Jeremiah 9:17-24

Actions:

- You could lead your congregation in a minutes' silence for the victims of war.
- You could split your congregation into groups to discuss some of the following questions:
  - How did you feel when you heard the news about the invasion? How have your feelings changed over the last year?
  - What would you do if the UK was attacked and your town was under siege? Would you stay or leave your home (and where would you go if so)?
  - How would you feel if you had a loved one on the frontlines?
  - Would you feel equipped to seek refuge and settle in another country?
  - How would you get through the winter without heating, electricity or gas?
  - What items are on your person right now? If an air raid siren went off now and you had no time to collect anything, what would you be taking down to the shelter with you for the next few hours?
- You could have a craft activity to make an origami dove of peace. Check out this guide for instructions: instructables.com/Origami-Peace-Dove/
- You could encourage children in your congregation to write a letter or postcard of encouragement to someone their age who is in Ukraine or has sought refuge near you. This could just be a creative exercise, or you could use local contacts to find people to send these to.

Prayer of petition:

God of refuge, we pray for those endangered by war. We think of soldiers on the frontlines, civilians under missile fire and those forced to leave their homes. Shelter them under your wings and keep them safe.

God who binds all wounds, we pray for those in pain. Whether their suffering is physical, emotional or relational, we ask for your healing power.

God who comforts those who mourn, be with those who are bereaved. Help them through this difficult time.

God of redemption, we pray for President Putin and all who support his war. We know that no one is beyond your reach and pray that you will touch their hearts.

God of justice and peace, we cry out for an end to this war. We have no power to stop an army, but we put our trust in you. We do not know what to do, but our eyes are on you.

Amen.

Protest

The anniversary gives us a chance to be reminded of the horror of war. We have become used to the headlines as they slip further out of our consciousness, but this week we are confronted again. We remind ourselves that every life lost is a precious child of God, bearing the divine image, slain in the name of a needless war of conquest.

We should allow ourselves to protest and rage against injustice, acknowledging the evil of the invasion of a sovereign country and the atrocities that have been committed against civilians. War is rarely an appropriate response to resolving conflict and we ask all governments to prioritise conflict prevention and mediation over ever-increasing investments in military force.

Sometimes we are reluctant to embrace anger in response to injustice. Perhaps we are wary of making too strong a statement, or feel that such emotion is un-Christian. Yet, time and again, the prophets of the Old Testament show us that God responds to injustice with righteous anger as well as mercy. As we grow closer to God, we begin to be moved by the things that move God's heart.

However, the prophets didn't just complain about the state of things – they pointed towards a more glorious future where God reigns. In acknowledging just how broken the world around us is, our need for Christ's rule of peace and justice becomes ever clearer. Protest is an opportunity to profess the hope that we hold, that God will make all our brokenness beautiful in its time. As citizens of that kingdom, our hopeful existence is itself a form of protest against the forces of death and darkness.

You could use this as the basis of a sermon on Romans 8:18-28, Micah 4:1-5, Isaiah 11:1-9 or another passage of your choosing.

Prayer of confession:

Lord, we confess that we have not paid close enough attention to the tragic loss of life in Ukraine and other conflicts around the world. We have not been moved to lament and righteous anger at the senseless evil of war.

We are too easily distracted to face up to human sin and death. Each life lost is worthy of mourning, a precious child in your image lost to violence.

Forgive us for looking the other way and passing by on the other side of the road, as our brothers and sisters are killed and oppressed. Individually and corporately, we have not done enough to help those in need.

We acknowledge that violence comes in many forms, and war does not emerge out of nowhere. Give us understanding to see where fear of the other has taken root in our own country and our own lives.

Search our hearts, O God, and see if there is any offensive way in us. Teach us to follow the way of Christ, who laid down his power and took up the cross. Lead us in the path of peace.

Amen.

Christ forgives all who truly repent; no one is beyond his reach. Hear then, this good news: your sins are forgiven.

Act

“Blessed are the peacemakers,” Jesus taught, “for they will be called children of God” (Matthew 5:9). Actively working for peace is a Christian vocation. Action helps us move beyond despair and into hope. While we may not be involved on the frontlines or in diplomatic talks, there are a number of things we can do to act for peace right where we are. Some of these can be done during the service, and others people can be encouraged to do when they get home:

- If you have a spare room available, you could consider hosting a Ukrainian refugee. There are still thousands of Ukrainians hoping to find safety in the UK, and as long as the conflict continues, people will continue taking the difficult decision to flee. Methodists for Ukraine \(methodist.org.uk/methodistsforukraine\) is a matching scheme that can help you find a suitable match and support you through the process. See more on Methodists for Ukraine below.
- You could take a special collection for the Methodist Church in Britain/All We Can Ukraine Emergency Appeal. You can support this vital work today at allwecan.org.uk/ukraine. More on this below.
- Write to your MP or local council expressing you/your church’s support for refugees, and asking them to increase their support. You can email enquiries@jpit.uk if you would like help writing this. Some examples of things you could ask:
  - For safe routes to be opened to other nationalities, responding to the success of Homes for Ukraine.
  - For greater support to help refugees access housing, whether Ukrainians looking to find their own accommodation or other refugees being housed in hotels in your area.
- Find out if there are any Ukrainian groups or refugee households in your area and ask if you or your church can support them in any way. This could be through donation of needed household items, use of a community space, provision of English lessons or CV classes, or other ideas. You could start by contacting your local branch of the Association of Ukrainians in Great Britain: augb.co.uk/augb-branch-pages/augb-branch-map.

Methodists for Ukraine hosting scheme

While we may be able to do little to affect the outcome of the war in Ukraine, what we can do is provide refuge for some of its victims. The Homes for Ukraine scheme gives us a unique opportunity to show hospitality to refugees needing a place of safety while war continues, and you could be equipped to host with Methodists for Ukraine.

A year on, many Ukrainians are still trying to reach the UK but cannot find a host. If you have spare room in your property, please consider offering it to Ukrainian refugees for 6 months. We can match you with a suitable guest and get you ready to host, helping you build support from your Methodist family. Visit methodist.org.uk/methodistsforukraine to express interest and find out more.

Ministers/stewards: we have flyers available to print advertising Methodists for Ukraine at the website above. Could you print some to place them on seats for this service?

Methodist Church in Britain/All We Can emergency appeal

As communities face violence, upheaval and the trauma of war, your donations are being used to support the response to the crisis happening in Ukraine and ensure that critical humanitarian assistance is available to those who need it.

Your gifts are being used to meet emergency needs – including trauma-sensitive mental healthcare in Ukraine delivered by mental health professionals; Psychological First Aid training for staff and volunteers in Poland, so that they can best support refugees in reception centres manage stress; hygiene kits and kits of essential items such as towels, bedlinen, cleaning supplies and toiletries for those fleeing the violence.

Find out more here: allwecan.org.uk/ukraine-emergency-appeal-update

Prayer of sending out:

Jesus, we praise you as the Prince of Peace. We pray for your kingdom to come, where swords are beaten into plowshares and we study war no more.

May we be vessels of your peace and instruments for your justice. Send us out to make peace in the power of your Spirit.

If you have any Ukrainians in your congregation, you could invite them to say the Lord's Prayer or read Psalm 31 in Ukrainian.
